Relevant Work Experience

Web Advanced (February 2012 - Present)

I collaborate with small teams to develop websites for our clients.

- Front end dev on many projects on various platforms
- Developed workflow for cross-browser and device testing websites
- Leading front end team push for accessibility, performance, and component-based design
- Training new team members on our best practices

Freelance (August 2008 - Present)

I work with clients to bring their visions for their sites to life.

- Front end for marketing landing pages for Corus Entertainment
- Maintenance work on GenieCompany.com
- Various WordPress blogs and websites

Berklee Online (May 2009 - January 2012)

I split my time between creating new marketing pages and updating old legacy sections of the website. I also helped update the learning management system used for all online courses with a new look and feel.

The Christian Science Monitor (June 2007 - May 2009)

I started keeping the front page of the website updated with the latest news, and later I was moved to the development team to work on our wordpress microsities and prepare for an upcoming redesign and new CMS.

Education

University of Massachusetts Amherst (Fall 2002 - Spring 2007)

Graduated with a Bachelor's Degree with Individual Concentration (BDIC) in Computer Graphics and Design (BA) and Japanese Minor. I also served as the president of the UMass Video Game Club (2004-2005), and was an undergraduate teaching assistant for Fundamentals of Graphic Communication (2004-2007).
